“The Dinner Party” by Mona Gardner

1 The country is India. A colonial official and his wife are giving a large dinner party. They are seated with their guests — army officers, and government attache’s with their wives, and a visiting American naturalist — in their spacious dining room. It has a bare marble floor, open rafters, and wide glass doors opening onto a veranda.

2 A spirited discussion springs up between a young girl who insists that women have outgrown the jumping-on-a-chair-at-the-sight-of-a-mouse era and a colonel who says that they haven’t.

3 “A woman’s unfailing reaction in any crisis,” the colonel says, “is to scream. And while a man may feel like it, he has that ounce more of nerve control than a woman has. And that last ounce more is what counts.”

4 The American does not join in the argument but watches the other guests. As he looks, he sees a strange expression come over the face of the hostess. She is staring straight ahead, her muscles contracting slightly. With a slight gesture, she summons the native boy standing behind her chair and whispers to him. The boy’s eyes widen, and he quickly leaves the room.

5 Of the guests, none except the American notices this or sees the boy place a bowl of milk on the veranda just outside the open doors.

6 The American comes to with a start. In India, milk in a bowl means only one thing—bait for a snake. He realizes there must be a cobra in the room. He looks up at the rafters — the likeliest place — but they are bare. Three corners of the room are empty, and in the fourth the servants are waiting to serve the next course. There is only one place left — under the table.

7 His first impulse is to jump back and warn the others, but he knows the commotion would frighten the cobra into striking. He speaks quickly, the tone of his voice so arresting that it sobers everyone.

8 “I want to know just what control everyone at this table has. I will count to three hundred — that’s five minutes — and not one of you is to move a muscle. Those who move will forfeit fifty rupees. Ready!”

9 The twenty people sit like stone images while he counts. He is saying “two hundred and eighty” when, out of the corner of his eye, he sees the cobra emerge and make for the bowl of milk. Screams ring out as he jumps to slam the veranda doors safely shut.

10 “You were right, Colonel!” the host exclaims. “A man has just shown us an example of perfect control.”

11 “Just a minute,” the American says, turning to his hostess. “Mrs. Wynnes, how did you know the cobra was in the room?”

12 A faint smile lights up the woman’s face as she replies. “Because it was crawling across my foot.”

“Fable For When There’s No Way Out”

by May Swenson

Grown too big for his skin,
and it grown hard,

without a sea and atmosphere—
he's drunk it all up—his strength's inside him now, but there's no room to stretch.

He pecks at the top
but his beak's too soft;

though instinct or ambition shoves,
he can't get through.

Barely old enough to bleed
and already bruised!

In a case this tough
what's the use

if you break your head
instead of the lid?

Despair tempts him

to just go limp:

Maybe the cell's
already a tomb,

and beginning end
in this round room.

Still, stupidly he pecks and pecks, as if from under his own skull—

yet makes no crack...

No crack until
he finally cracks,

and kicks and stomps.
What a thrill

and shock to feel his little gaff poke

through the floor!
A way he hadn't known or meant.

Rage works if reason won't.
When locked up, bear down.

“The Man Who Finds That His Son Has Become a Thief”
by Raymond Souster

Coming into the store at first angry
At the accusation, believing in
The word of his boy who has told him:
I didn’t steal anything, honest.

Then becoming calmer, seeing that anger
Will not help in the business, listening painfully
As the other’s evidence unfolds, so painfully slow.

Then seeing gradually that evidence
Almost as if tightened slowly around the neck
Of his son, at first vaguely circumstantial, then gathering damage.
Until there is present the unmistakable odour of guilt
Which now seeps into the mind and lays its poison.

Suddenly feeling sick and alone and afraid,
As if an unseen hand had slapped him in the face
For no reason whatsoever: wanting to get out
Into the street, the night, the darkness, anywhere to hide
The pain that must show in the face to these strangers, the fear.

It must be like this.
It could hardly be otherwise.

"Cats in the Cradle"
by Harry Chapin

My child arrived just the other day
He came to the world in the usual way
But there were planes to catch, and bills to pay
He learned to walk while I was away
And he was talking before I knew it and as he grew
He said, "I'm gonna be like you, Dad,
You know I'm gonna be like you"

And the cats in the cradle and the silver spoon
Little boy blue and the man in the moon
When you comin home, dad, I don't know when,
But we'll get together then, Son,
You know we'll have a good time then.

My son turned ten just the other day
He said "Thanks for the ball, Dad, come on lets play can you teach me to throw?" I said, "Not today,
I got a lot to do" He said "Thats okay"
And then he walked away but his smile never dimmed
And said "I'm gonna be like him, yeah
You know I'm going to be like him"

And the cats in the cradle and the silver spoon
Little boy blue and the man on the moon
When you comin home, dad, I dont know when,
But we'll get together then, Son,
You know we'll have a good time then.

Well he came from college just the other day
So much like a man I just had to say,
"Son, I'm proud of you, can you sit for a while?"
He shook his head, and he said with a smile

"What I'd really like, Dad, is to borrow the car keys See you later, can I have them please?"

And the cats in the cradle and the silver spoon
Little boy blue and the man on the moon
When you comin home, Son, I dont know when,
But we'll get together then, Dad,
You know we'll have a good time then.

I've long since retired, my son's moved away.
I called him up just the other day.....
said "I'd like to see you if you don't mind"
He said "I'd love to Dad, if I could find the time.
You see my new jobs a hassle, and the kids have the flu.
But It's sure nice talking to you, Dad,

It's been sure nice talking to you....."
And as I hung up the phone it occurred to me
He'd grown up just like me,
My boy was just like me.....

And the cats in the cradle and the silver spoon
Little boy blue and the man on the moon
When you comin home, Son, I dont know when,
But we'll get together then, Dad
We're gonna have a good time then.

ARGUMENT ESSAY TIPS

Meaning

- Be sure your argument is strong and convincing; state it as a FACT not an OPINION. (Avoid statements such as, "I think" or "I believe")
- Make sure your claims are very specific. (see examples below)

Development

- Use quotes whenever possible to prove your points, but be sure to explain them; don't merely drop them in. ICE your quotes: Introduce, Cite, Explain.
- Be sure to acknowledge the opposing argument, but use your evidence to overpower it.

Organization

- Thesis should be a definitive statement about your position without using "I."
- Topic sentences should be main ideas, not details. A topic sentence is not just a statement of fact, but rather a statement explaining what will be proven in the paragraph.
- Transitions belong in the topic sentences of body paragraphs, not in the clinchers.

Language

- For the most part, formal essay writing requires that you refrain from using personal pronouns. However, for this essay, the use of "you" can be acceptable.
- Avoid contractions. For the most part, formal essay writing requires that you refrain from using contractions.
- Use strong vocabulary.
Instead of "dealing with," use coping, handling, managing, etc.
Instead of "good" use benefits, helpful, positive, etc.
Instead of "bad" use negative, deleterious, troubling, etc.
- Do not use exclamation points (!!) in formal writing.
- Watch spelling, particularly if the word is already PRINTED IN THE ARTICLE IN FRONT OF YOU:

its/it's their/they're/there

even though = two words

a lot = two words

TRIES NOT trys

could have NOT could of Conventions

- When citing an article, use the author's last name if it is given to you.
According to Peter Ellis, "Hard work is the key to success" (Text 1).
"Preparing and studying hard are important factors for success" (Text 1).
- Punctuation goes before quotations [with few exceptions]:

"That which does not kill us only serves to make us strong," according to a popular proverb.
"Are you a man or a monster?" Rainsford asks.

Exception: When question mark is not part of the quote...

Can you believe she called me a "traitor"?

[In this case, the question mark goes outside of the quote because it is not part of the quote.]
